

MAISON CROYEZ

Brand Identity Guidelines

Questions:

- Why does Maison Croyez exist and how does it make people's lives better?

Maison Croyez exists to bring effortless elegance and emotional depth into every corner of your home — through beautifully designed diffusers that make scent part of your space, not a distraction from it.

We created a stress-free way to make any room feel special. Just a clean, minimalist plug-in that fills your home with subtle, long-lasting fragrance in minutes — and disappears visually into your décor.

The scents? They're more than aroma. They're energy-setters. Crafted to support whatever moment you're in — unwinding after work, welcoming guests, or resetting your mood.

Maison Croyez isn't just about how your home smells. It's about how your space makes you feel — calm, clear, collected, and completely you?

- What mindset or product philosophy are we here to disrupt?

That scent doesn't really change the vibe of your home.

That all diffusers look out of place or ruin your aesthetic.

That all fragrances are chemical, toxic, or overwhelming.

That you can't feel like you're in a five-star hotel — unless you leave your house.

We believe scent should be part of your design — like light, music, or art. It should feel natural, last long, and make every room feel calm, clean, and intentional.

Because when your space feels good, you feel better too.

- What role does Maison Croyez play in our customer's life?

Maison Croyez helps people make their home feel more expensive, elegant, and welcoming — without spending a fortune.

It's the final touch after cleaning, decorating, or setting the mood. The thing that makes your space feel ready — for you or for your guests.

It becomes part of your routine. You plug it in in the morning while making coffee. You use it at night to relax. It creates a mood without effort.

It also helps you make a great impression. People notice when your home smells good — and they always ask what it is.

- What are the top-5 reasons why people are struggling right now with the options in the market?

They stop working after a few months.

Most diffusers feel like a short-term fix. Buttons break, parts come loose, or the mist just stops.

You can barely smell them, and if it smells, smells extremely chemical.

Even after pouring in tons of oil, the scent fades fast or never fills the room. Most options in the market feel chemical, synthetic, too strong.

They're messy and high maintenance.

Leaking bases, constant refills, and mold buildup turn what should be a calming ritual into a chore.

They don't actually improve how your home feels.

At best, they mask odors. At worst, they do nothing. They don't change the mood, elevate the energy, or make a space feel special.

They feel expensive for what they do.

You either overpay for branding, or save money and end up with a bad experience. There's no sweet spot.

- What are the top-5 reasons why people would choose Maison Croyez over other brands?

It actually lasts.

No batteries to charge, no weak parts to break. Just plug it in once — and it works every day for years.

It fills the room without overpowering.

Our scents are soft but effective. You'll notice them in minutes — and they linger for weeks, not hours.

It's clean, cordless, and effortless.

No water, no leaks, no mess. No ugly wires or bulky machines. Just a simple design that fits your space.

It makes your home feel more expensive.

Inspired by five-star hotels — without the price tag. It turns your home into something people remember.

It fits your lifestyle, not the other way around.

No apps, no settings, no stress. Just a scent ritual that flows with your routine and elevates your energy.

- What's the target audience?

Gender: Women only.

Age: 35 and above.

Occupation:

- Homeowners.

- Interior design enthusiasts.
- Professionals who work from home.
- Busy moms with older kids.
- Wellness-oriented women (yoga, therapy, nutrition, spiritual practices).
- Women who entertain guests and care about presentation.
- Women upgrading or redecorating their homes as a form of self-expression.

Tone & Language:

- Elegant, warm, confident — never trendy or playful.
- Speaks with intention, not hype.
- A balance between emotional depth and minimalism.
- Clear, smart, and visually-influenced (less is more).
- More “quiet luxury” than “flashy self-care”.

Other Important Traits:

- Values peace, order, and emotional well-being in her home.
- Sees scent as part of ambiance, not just function.
- Cares deeply about first impressions (especially when hosting).
- Invests in herself and her space — without feeling guilty about it.
- Has tried other fragrance solutions and is looking for something better.
- Attracted to products that feel luxurious, but make life easier.

- What are the top-3 things our target audience want to achieve with our products?

- They want to receive as many compliments as possible from their guests.
- They want their spaces to look, feel, and smell luxurious, without spending hundreds.
- They need a diffuser that doesn't look ugly, cheap, or tacky.

- What are the top-3 things our target audience is afraid of in regards to our products?

That the fragrance won't last or fill the room — making them look careless or lazy.

That the diffuser will look cheap or ruin their décor — giving the wrong impression.

That the scent will smell fake, harsh, or cheap — and feel embarrassing when guests visit.

- What are your top-5 competitors?

- PURA
- AERA
- SCENTIA
- Aroma360
- Hotel Collection

- What do all these competitors have in common?

They all describe scent as emotional, nostalgic, or mood-shifting.

They highlight “clean,” “safe,” or “non-toxic” ingredients.
They use advanced or smart diffuser technology as a selling point.
They name-drop luxury brands or hotel partnerships to build trust.
They position scent as part of wellness or daily self-care.
They tell an origin story to feel relatable and purpose-driven.
They rely on tech features (apps, schedules, cold-air diffusion) to justify higher pricing.
They focus more on performance and function than beauty or aesthetics.

- What is our customer buying beyond the product?

- A home that feels luxurious, without spending luxury prices.
- A sense of pride when guests walk in and notice the scent.
- A daily ritual that brings calm, clarity, or beauty into their routine.
- A design piece that complements their space.
- A shortcut to emotional reset, without effort or clutter.
- A lifestyle upgrade that feels personal, intentional, and elegant.

What objections do people have before buying?

- “Will the scent actually last and fill the room?”
- “Is it going to look cheap or ruin my décor?”
- “What if it smells too strong or too fake?”
- “Why would I pay more when I can just buy a candle or plug-in?”
- “I’ve tried other diffusers and they didn’t work — what makes this different?”

- What are the top-20 sentences that must be on every proposal from us?

Fragrance that feels like you cleaned the whole house — even when you didn’t.
The scent that makes guests stop mid-sentence and ask what it is.
A diffuser that disappears into your decor — and elevates it at the same time.
Turns your space into a five-star suite — without turning on the cleaning lady.
Luxury scent that doesn’t smell like chemicals or cost a fortune.
The easiest way to impress people without lifting a finger.
It looks like a design piece and smells like money.
No oils, no wires, no stress — just compliments on how your home smells.
Scents designed to linger softly, not scream for attention.
Finally, a diffuser that looks as good as your furniture.
You plug it in once — and it works harder than your candle ever did.
Made for the women whose home is her signature.
Your home will smell expensive — even if your scent budget isn’t.
When people walk in, they won’t know what changed — just that it feels better.
Your diffuser shouldn’t need instructions, batteries, or forgiveness.
It gives “I have it all together” — even when the laundry’s still in the dryer.
For women who love elegance, not effort.

Because you've outgrown plastic gadgets and overpowering oils.
The invisible detail that makes your home feel finished.
It doesn't just smell clean — it feels like peace.
I never thought a scent could change how I feel in my own home. Now it's a reality.
This isn't just fragrance. It's literally energy in a bottle.
I use this one when I want to attract abundance and this one when I'm looking for love.
Every scent is tied to an intention. That's the whole point of manifestation.
The diffuser? Plug it in, forget it, and let your space do the work.
My home used to feel heavy — now it feels light and warm like my intentions.
I've had ugly diffusers before. This one blends right into my decor like no other.
It fills the room in minutes, but the scent lives rent-free for weeks.
A sacred space needs a sacred scent. My place vibes changed in a heartbeat.
This feels like a secret I have to share with you guys.
