PATTERNS

A logo system for a lot of versatility.

The established logos family is a balance between the spiritual and the modern, transmitting the essence of the brand. Maison Croyez has four (4) variations of the logo for maximum adaptability in its various formats.

BEST PRACTICES

Use only use the logos provided in the editable.

Any application that is not stipulated in this manual is considered as incorrect use of the logo.

Its distortion or modification –in proportions, elements or colors outside the brand– without approval are prohibited.

Use the logo (in any of its two versions) only horizontally or at 90° (from bottom to top). In the case of the isotypes, only use horizontally.

Use the brand's color palette. In case of limitations in its reproduction, try with the colors closest to the palette or with black and white.

EXTRAS

Both the logo and isotype must always be applied with a single ink or with the specific brand treatments, as seen on page 8 of this manual.

The safe area of each logo will be determined by the height of each element established in the adjacent section.

COLOR, TEXT AND CONTRAST

For a visual hierarchy to be functional and aesthetic, it's important to correctly manage chromatic contrast.

When information is important and needs to be read quickly, use a combination that has plenty of contrast.

When we talk about secondary information or decorative elements, we can use a combination with less contrast.

The intention of the palette is to make the brand elegant, modern and spiritual, without making it unattainable or cold. Therefore, the proportion of colors is essential: always play with the contrast between the sober colors.

Use the contrast between colors when using text, especially when it's primary information, to maintain their legibility.

Colors will vary depending on application. The palette is provided in CMYK for print and RGB for digital media. Only use the colors within the brand's editable ones.

Keep the proportion of colors and avoid using colors that are not stipulated in this manual, unless it is completely necessary.

MORE CONTRAST

Suitable for both important text and background

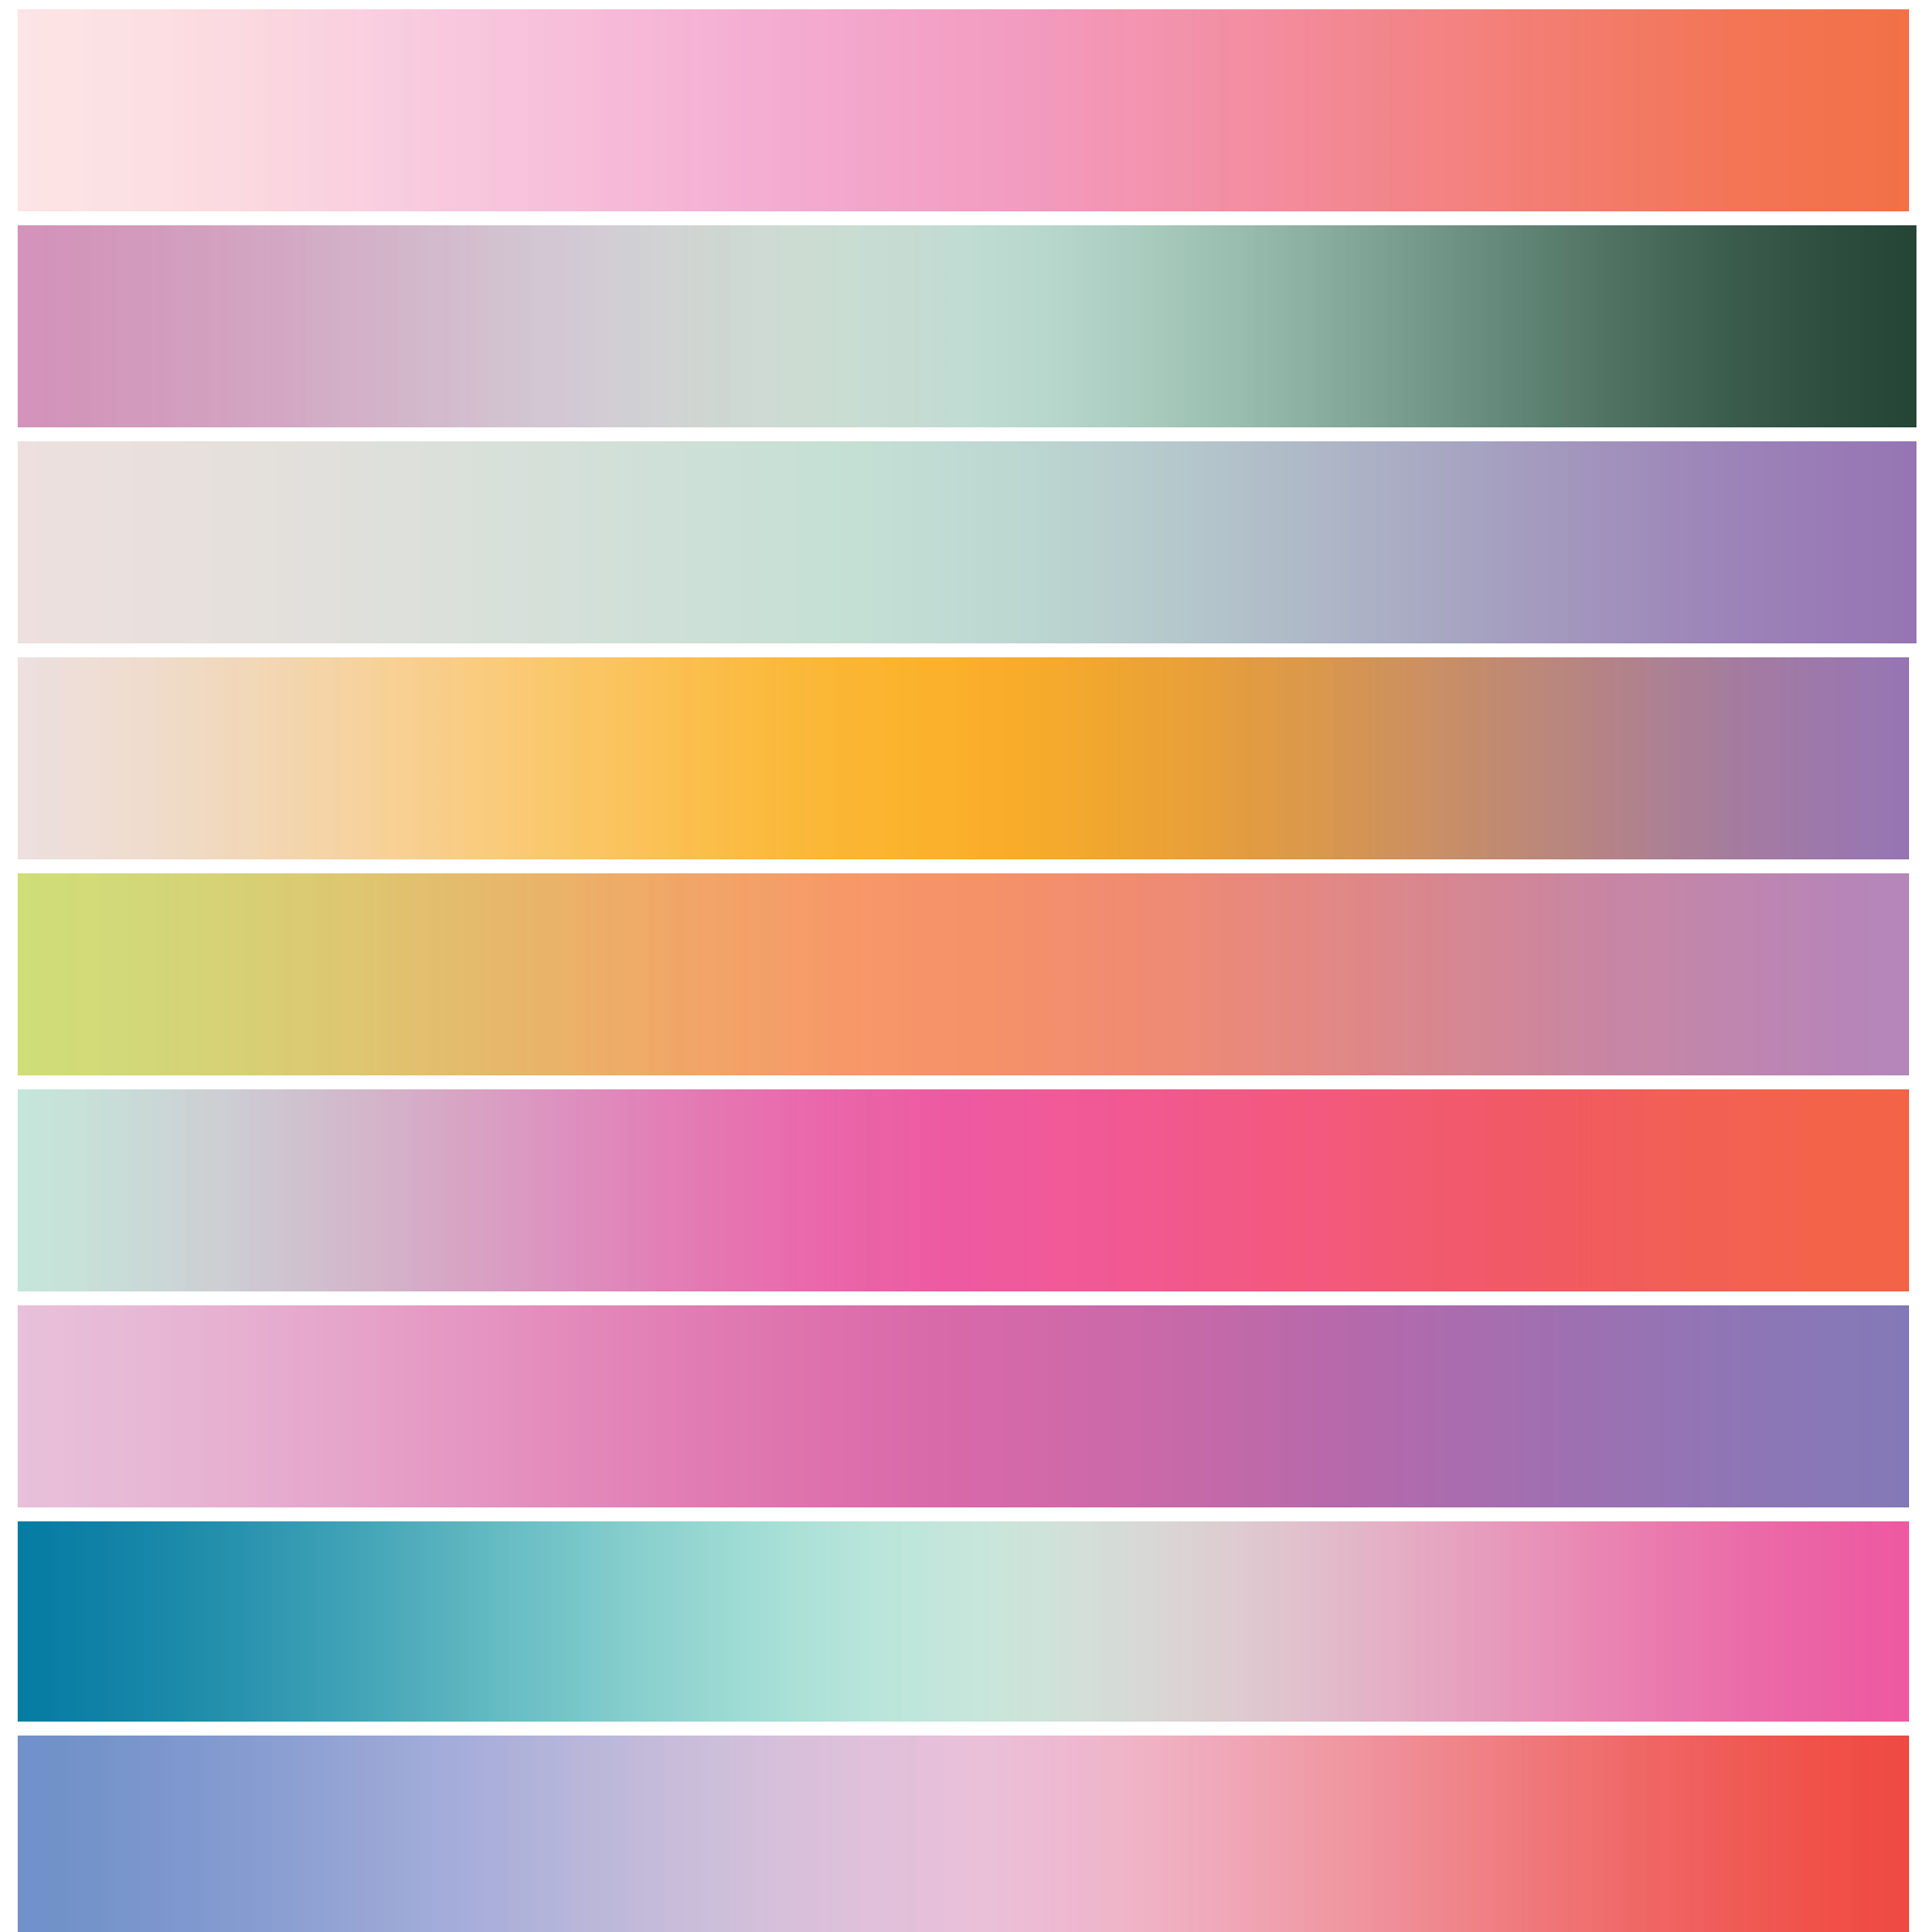

LESS CONTRAST

The brand is characterized by having various color accents, applied in gradients. When using text in these gradients, it is important to have good contrast to ensure readability, which is why solid tones are established to use in them.

If you want to intensify the contrast in these tones, you can play and apply “Multiply” or if the case requires it, you can use white.

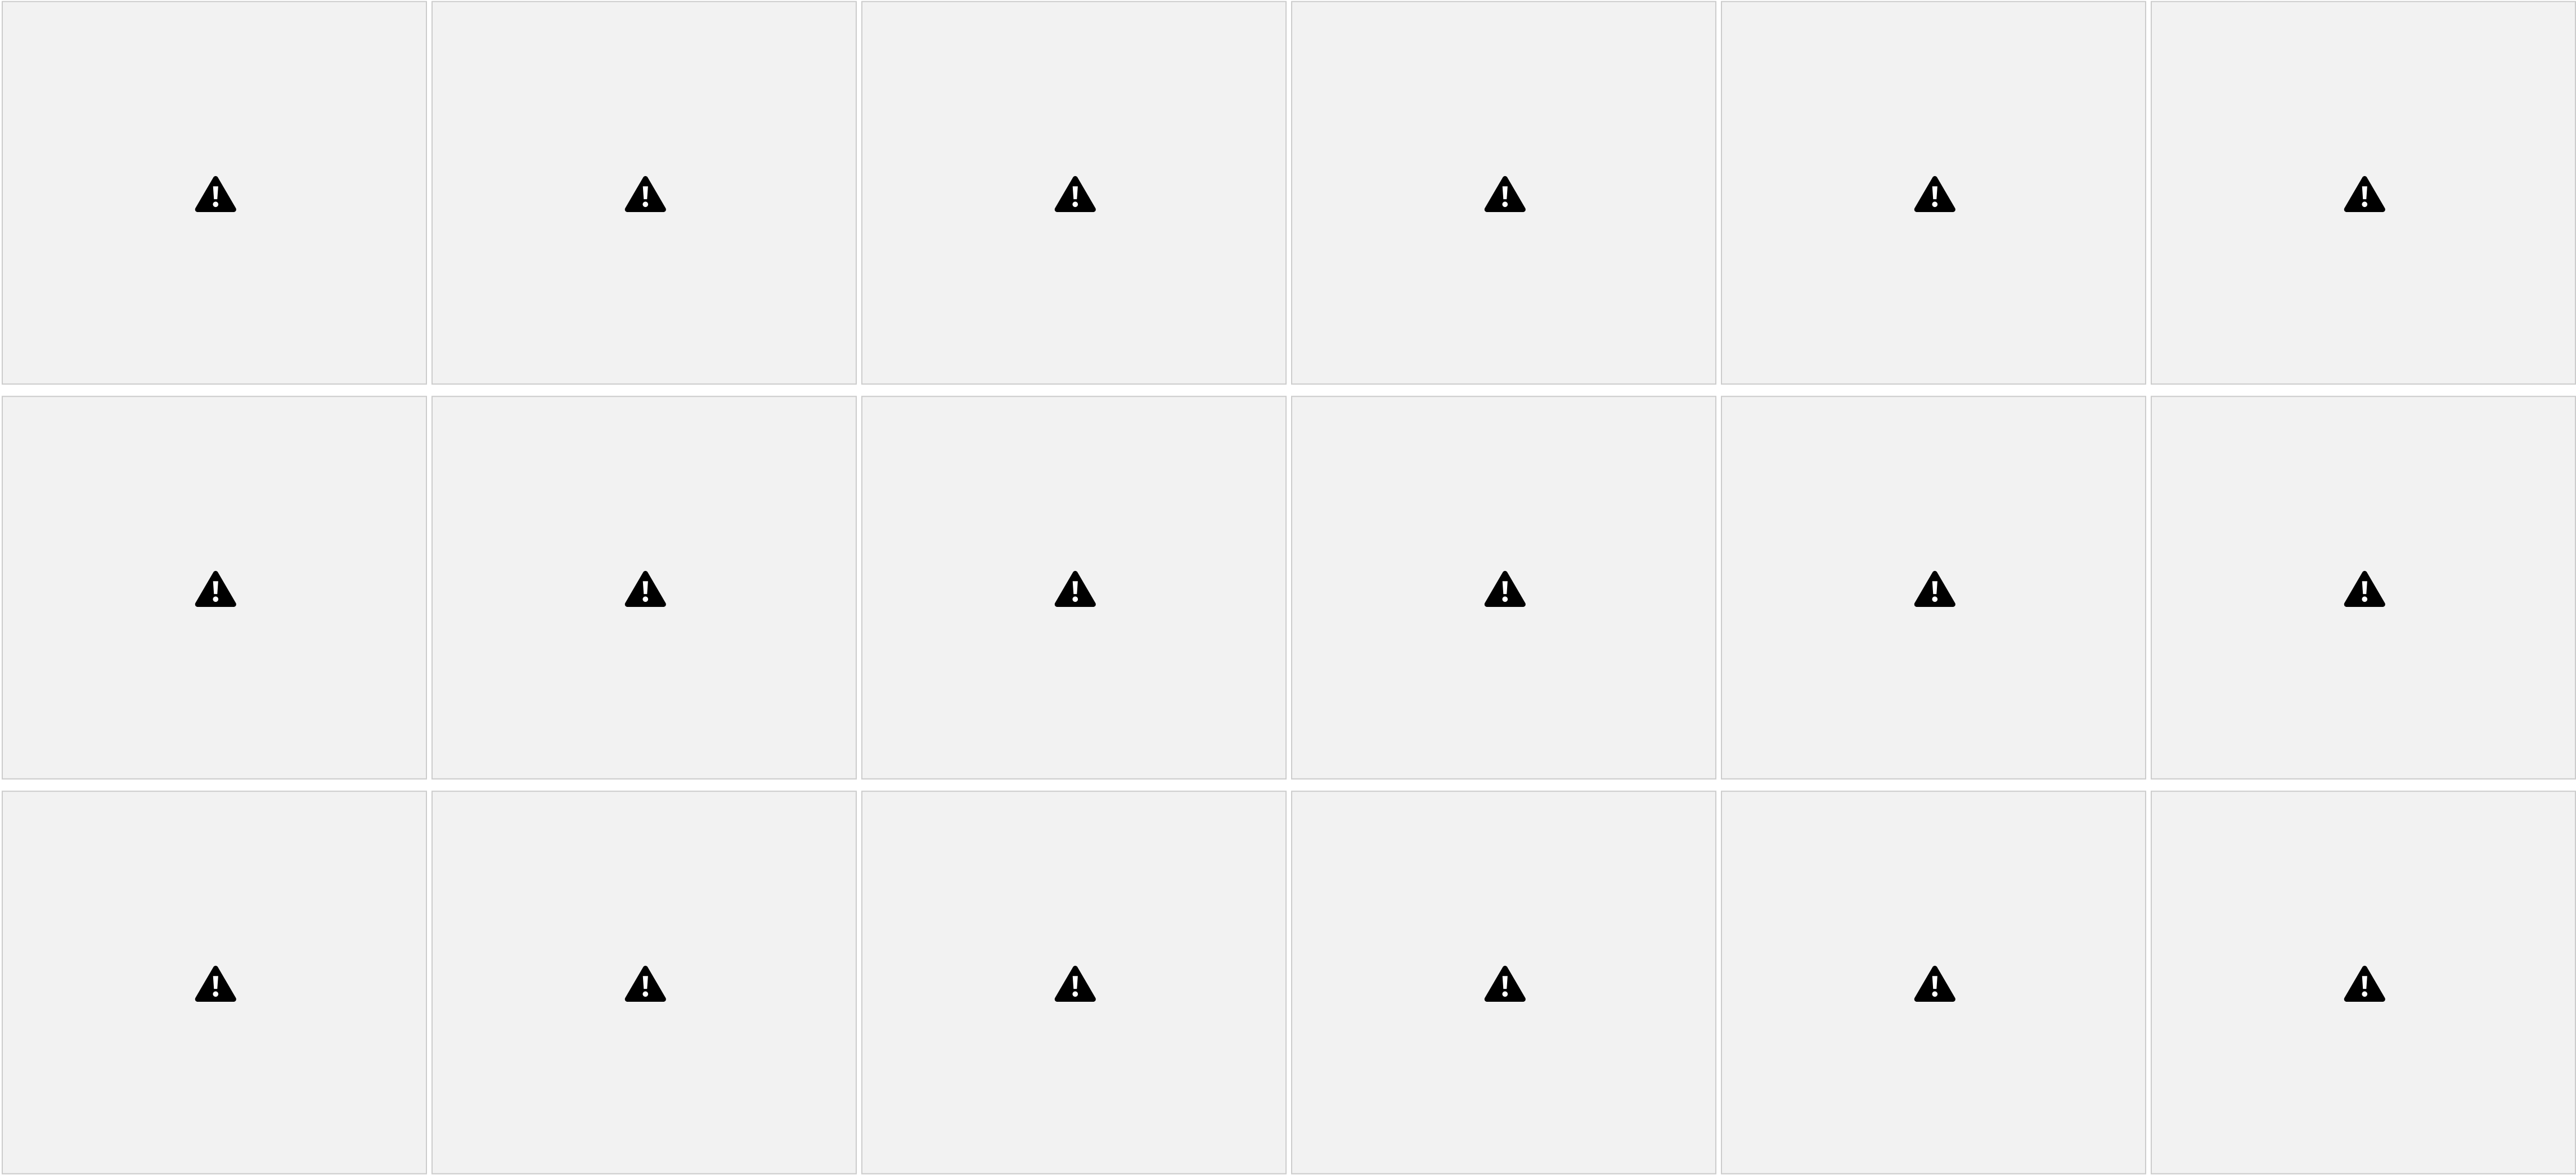

Use the gradients that were provided in the editables.

On the next page you can get the mixture of solid colors (both in CMYK and RGB) to generate the gradients of the brand.

Pattern system & its uses in the brand

In Maison Croyez, we have a pattern a shape system in outline ideal to combine with the brand’s extra assets without taking away the spotlight from the main visual identity.

These patterns and shapes can be used over solid backgrounds (in a single ink) or against photographs and gradients (in a single ink, applying “Multiply”) as shown on this page. These case uses highlight this system’s value without overshadowing the brand.

This asset over photography can act as a “window” to the aura of the essence.
